Birko Rolls Out New Line of Poultry Processing Solutions

Food sanitation company announces lineup of chemical solutions for poultry processing facilities

HENDERSON, Colo. – Birko, a leader in providing integrated sanitation solutions, has announced its new line of poultry processing solutions, including antifoams, antimicrobials, sanitizers, detergents, disinfectants, and more.

“Birko’s lineup of poultry processing solutions are designed to save money, time, water, and energy,” said Tony Micle, business development director, poultry, at Birko said. “We understand that it can be hard for poultry processors to achieve a Category 1 status, so we’ve created a line of poultry processing products that not only make plants government compliant in preventing Salmonella and Campylobacter outbreaks but do it in an increasingly efficient way.”

Birko’s poultry processing line includes multiple products such as poultry scalds, rail and shackle lubricants, cleaning and sanitation chemistry, and antimicrobials that comply with USDA (FSIS) standards and reduce cross-contamination between processing areas. To comply with green-friendly cleaning and sanitation, the products do not contain ammonia, chlorinated solvents, heavy metals, or butyl solvents.

In addition to its poultry processing solution lineup, Birko offers a complete line of poultry sanitation products and equipment. For more information, visit Birko’s poultry processing products page or contact Tony Micle at tmicle@birkocorp.com.
